20 Years of Addressing Equity and Bias in Education and Clinical Care

23rd September 2021 - 2:00 pm BST | 9:00 am EDT

Please join us on 23rd September 2021 at 2:00 pm BST | 9:00 am EDT to learn more about addressing Equity and Bias in Education and Clinical Care.

In this discussion, VisualDx team will discuss how they are leveraging their 20 year history to address the knowledge gaps in medical education curriculum related to diversity, equity and inclusion. We'll also talk about best practice clinical reasoning skills to address issues such as diagnostic errors and cognitive bias. Finally, we'll pull it all together by framing the needs of the modern medical student as someone who is digitally savvy and an expert in acquiring information to complement their skills and experience.

This webinar will be hosted by Michael Annechino, the Global Partnerships Director and head of special projects for VisualDx. Michael is responsible for building VisualDx international business and leading special funded programs such as development and deployment of VisualDx in the global health context in collaboration with the New England Journal of Medicine and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.
