Fares Sa'ed Ali Al-Qhtani

Mut'ah University, 2010

This study aims at showing the importance of prosperity verses in the Holy Quran and its various types including spiritual, physical, apparent, embedded, spontaneous, and delayed derivations. The exact word Alnafa (prosperity) is the most obvious utterance used in the Holly Revelation to indicate this meaning, i.e. (prosperity). It means benefit and it is a means to the beneficial deed in the moderate a frame of what spirit and physical body need going in harmony with what legislation implies and with anything done to protect it. This is clear in the three acts some of which are related to the theoretical aspect which indicates the prescription of Al-Naf'a in the Holly Quran showing its meaning, its inclination according to the context in which it is used, its division and classifying it in a controlled way and showing its importance and also according to its content shown in the structural clues and their including political, social, economical, psychological and theoretical dimensions. Some of these are related to the religious aspect which is the basis of all other benefits with the belief that Allah has benefit and harm, some of them are related to the Hereafter in the way that some deeds can not be valued only according to the physical scale, but also extends far to life after death. There physical life is valued no more in essence and nature. The study ends with the most important results and recommendations.
